

PANELIST BIOGRAPHIES

TRITA PARSI is the author of Treacherous Alliance - The Secret Dealings of Iran, Israel and the United States (Yale University Press, 2007.) He wrote his doctoral thesis on Israeli-Iranian relations under Professor Francis Fukuyama (and Drs. Zbigniew Brzezinski, R. K. Ramazani, Jakub Grygiel, Charles Doran) at Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies while heading the largest Iranian-American organization in the United States, the National Iranian American Council.

KHALED DAWOUD has been the New York correspondent for Al-Jazeera's Satellite channel since October 2006, covering the United Nations and major U.S. news stories. Mr. Dawoud was previously the Washington, D.C. bureau chief of Egypt's most widely-circulated daily newspaper, Al-Ahram, where he covered the White House, the State Department and U.S. foreign policy. Mr. Dawoud also served as a regional editor at Al-Ahram's English Weekly, covering events throughout the Middle East. Mr. Dawoud is a graduate of the American University in Cairo and holds Master's degrees from the American University in Cairo (Television Journalism) and the University of London (Politics of the Middle East).

DANIEL LEVY is a Senior Fellow and Director of the Prospects for Peace Initiative at The Century Foundation and a Senior Fellow and Director of the Middle East Initiative at the New America Foundation. During the Barak Government, he worked in the Prime Minister's Office as special adviser and head of the Jerusalem Affairs unit under Minister Haim Ramon. He also worked as senior policy adviser to former Israeli Minister of Justice, Yossi Beilin. He was a member of the official Israeli delegation to the Taba negotiations with the Palestinians in January 2001, and previously served on the negotiating team to the "Oslo B" Agreement from May to September 1995, under Prime Minister Rabin. In 2003, he worked as an analyst for the International Crisis Group Middle East Program. Daniel was the lead Israeli drafter of the Geneva Initiative and prior to joining The Century Foundation and New America Foundation was directing policy planning and international relations at the Geneva Campaign Headquarters in Tel Aviv. Levy received a Bachelors and Masters with Honors from King's College, Cambridge. He has published extensively in a broad range of publications including Ha'aretz, The Jerusalem Post, The Boston Globe, United Press International, The American Prospect, The Washington Monthly, and The International Herald Tribune.